Indiana Graduate Finds Unique Occupation

becomes medical artist

Margaret M. Croup, 1940, has changed her profession from that of an elementary school teacher to being a medical artist. An interesting story written by Anne Weiss of the Pittsburgh Press appeared in the Sunday, February 6 edition of the Press. Miss Weiss' story about Margaret Croup was as follows:

A surgical portrait of human anatomy may not possess the glamour of a Rembrandt by all standards of the art patron, but to the medical profession as well as to the medical artist it can be an object of scientific beauty.

The latter viewpoint is shared by a young Pittsburgh woman who has had this particular art field practically to herself in this district for the past six years. Currently, she seems to be a girl alone in her profession. The few others in this field are men.

As an art teacher in elementary schools for six years, pretty Margaret Croup of Perry Highway, grew a little bored with the subject of birds and bees, flowers and trees in the process of being transferred to drawing paper for the edification of her pupils who, in turn, copied the subject to the best of their ability.

Sometimes their best was not very good and the daily routine became a little monotonous with very dim prospects of every discovering a potential classroom Rembrandt or Pissarro.

As a matter of fact, the youthful art instructor, graduated from high school at the age of 16 and who was an art major in college, had long had "a bee in her bonnet" — even before her graduation from Indiana State Teachers College.

"I suppose the primary reason that the medical artist profession is not so popular with women, is because of the fact that preparation requires practically seven years of study," Miss Croup explained.

After giving up teaching Margaret entered Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, School of Medical Illustration. Later at St. Margaret's Memorial Hospital in Pittsburgh, where she spent more than three years, her experience in her chosen field was varied.

Not only did she make surgical drawings in the operating room, but also made, processed and printed films both as an artist and a photographer.

She has free lanced since 1949, working for many physicians and surgeons at the University of Pittsburgh. She has spent as many as six hours in the hospital operating room, sketching a technical organic detail during an operation.

Much of her work, however, is done at home; 90% of her drawings are pen and ink sketches. Many of Peggy's scientific and precise illustrations are found in medical journals and illustrate papers written by men and women in the medical profession.

Peggy is proud of her pen and ink contributions to a volume written by Dr. W. Harry Archer, professor of Dental Surgery, University of Pittsburgh, as well as her work with Dr. Don L. Fisher, of the Allegheny General staff, who was recently named as one of the 12 "men of the year."

She was also commissioned to make a sketch of the new ultrasonic apparatus perfected by Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

Employed at the Veterans Hospital in Aspinwall for more than two years, Miss Croup has been transferred to the new Veterans' Hospital in Oakland.

"Medical art is a fascinating career, one that I would recommend to any girl who has a natural aptitude for sketching and a good nervous system," Peggy confided.

"However, it is a tedious task at times when a certain amount of work must be completed within certain number of hours. But it pays dividends, carrying with it a sense of accomplishment in the welfare of humanity."

has been social studies head

Dr. Ralph E. Heiges, dean of instruction at the State Teachers College, Indiana, Pennsylvania, since 1942, will transfer to Shippensburg State Teachers College as dean of instruction at the close of the current academic year, according to Dr. Willis E. Pratt, president of the State Teachers College at Indiana.

Dr. Ralph W. Cordier, head of the social studies department at the Indiana State Teachers College, has been reassigned to the position of dean of instruction at the College to take the place of Dean Heiges.

"Dean Ralph E. Heiges has been outstanding among the deans of instruction in state teachers colleges in the country," Dr. Willis E. Pratt stated. "He has given excellent and loyal service as the dean at the State Teachers College at Indiana all during his term since 1942. The administration and all associated with the college regret to see him go."

In transferring to Shippensburg State Teachers College, Dean Heiges returns to the school from which he received his early undergraduate training. His father, the late Dr. Jesse Heiges, was dean of instruction at Shippensburg State Teachers College from 1908 to 1934. Dean Heiges has been intimately acquainted with Shippensburg State Teachers College for many years.

Dr. Ralph W. Cordier who will replace Dean Heiges at Indiana received his A.B. degree from Manchester College in Indiana, and his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio State University. During the 1951-52 academic year he took post-doctoral work on a Ford Foundation Fellowship at Columbia University in New York City and the University of London in England.

Dr. Cordier has been an instructor on the social studies faculty at the Indiana State Teachers College since September, 1947. He has been head of the social studies department since September, 1952.

Prior to coming to Indiana he had taught for one year at Slippery Rock State Teachers College, ten years at Clarion State Teachers College, and two years at the State Teachers College, Charleston, Illinois, where he was supervisor of student teachers in elementary and secondary social studies.

He taught for eight years in social studies fields in North Canton High School in Ohio and the Grandview Heights High School in Columbus, Ohio. He has also taught summer sessions at Manchester College, Ohio State University, Louisiana State University, and the University of Minnesota.

Ralph E. Heiges

Dr. Ralph E. Heiges received his Normal School Certificate from the Shippensburg State Teachers College in 1923 and his A.B. degree from Ursinus College in 1925. He received his A.M. and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia University in New York City. He has also taken graduate work at Ohio State University and at the University of Texas.

Dean Heiges began his career in education at Royersford High School, Royersford, Pennsylvania, where he served as a history teacher from 1925-1927. Between 1927 and 1929 he was in graduate school at Columbia University. From 1929 to 1934 he was a professor of government at Findlay College, Findlay, Ohio. During the years 1934 to 1936 he taught social studies at the State Teachers College, Clarion, Pennsylvania.

In 1936 he became a member of the social studies faculty at the State Teachers College, Indiana, Pennsylvania. In 1940 he became head of the secondary education department at Indiana and in 1942 was made dean of instruction, which position he has since filled with the exception of 1947-1948 when he served as acting president of the college.

Recent contributions to professional literature by Dr. Heiges include articles in the Educational Research Bulletin, PSEA Journal, Journal of Teacher Education, The Peabody Journal of Education, Indiana Alumni News Bulletin, and in Readings in American State Government by Lancaster and Breckenridge.

Professionally Dr. Heiges has been active in the Pennsylvania State Education Association, the National Education Association, and numerous other educational groups. He is a life member of both the N.E.A. and the P.S.E.A.

He is a member of the American Political Science Association, Phi Delta Kappa, Kappa Delta Pi, and Tau Kappa Alpha.

Dr. Heiges is listed in Who's Who in Education and Who's Who in the East. He is a Mason, a past president of his local Kiwanis Club, president of the Shakespeare Club of Indiana, a director of the Indiana Community Chest, member of the Y.M.C.A. Advisory Council, and member of the board of the Indiana Hospital. He is married and Dr. and Mrs. Heiges have one son, Richard F. Heiges, who recently returned from a tour of duty as a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army in the Far East and who is now in the graduate school at Ohio State University.

From 1947-1949, Dr. Heiges was chairman of the Pennsylvania State Education Association Committee of Professional Activities in Teacher Education Institutions. In 1950-1952 he was president of the P.S.E.A. Department of Higher Education and a member of the P.S.E.A. Executive Council.

During the past several years he has served with Visitation Committees of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. In 1954, he spent a sabbatical leave studying at the University of Texas and traveling in Mexico and southwestern United States.

Dr. Ralph W. Cordier has published more than 42 books and articles. He is senior editor for the Rand, McNally social studies series. Seven of his books have been published in this series. An eighth text in the social studies field has been published by Harcourt, Brace and Company.

He has had articles published in the Social Education Magazine, Social Studies Magazine, Educational Administration and Supervision, the Yearbook of Public Opinion, Pennsylvania School Journal, the American Historian Review, Journal of Educational Sociology, The Commonwealth, and many other educational magazines.

Cordier-authored and edited social studies text books are used in schools throughout the United States. Dr. Cordier is educational editor of American Heritage, the official journal of the American Association of State and Local History. He is contributing editor of the Pennsylvania History Magazine, the journal of the Pennsylvania Historical Association of which organization he is vice president.

He has been consulting editor for Informative Classroom Picture Publishers of Grand Rapids, Michigan. He is a member of the Committee of Professional Relations of the National Council for Social Studies, and is chairman of the National Council's Committee on state and local councils.

He was a representative of the National Council for Social Studies to the International History Conference in Germany in 1952. He was president for the Pennsylvania Council for Social Studies in 1953 and is now president of the Middle States Council for the Social Studies.

During the recent curriculum revision program for secondary schools in Pennsylvania, he was chairman of the State Secondary Social Studies Curriculum Committee. He has also been a conferee on international education United States Office of Education and the United Nations Information Office.

Dr. Cordier is a member of the American Historical Association, American Association of Political and Social Science, Middle States Council for the Social Studies, Pennsylvania Historical Association, National Education Association, and the Pennsylvania State Education Association. He is a member of Pi Gamma Mu, Phi Sigma Pi, Phi Delta Kappa.

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Cordier have one son Sherwood who is now working on his Ph.D. in European history at the University of Minnesota.

Two Art Department Faculty Members Retire

Two Indiana State Teachers College are department faculty, Dorothy Murdock and Blanche Waugaman Jefferson, retired from their positions on January 20, 1955, at the close of the first semester.

Dorothy Murdock, who has been acting head of the art department, retired after twenty-five and a half years as a teacher at the Indiana State Teachers College.

Miss Murdock came to Indiana as an instructor in the art department in September, 1928. For nineteen years she served as supervisor of the art student teachers at the Keith School and as an instructor in the college art department. The remainder of the time she has been an instructor in the art department proper in the college.

Miss Murdock had originally planned to retire at the end of the 1953-4 academic year but stayed on for the first semester of the current year during the leave of absence of Dr. Orval Kipp, head of the art department. Miss Murdock served as acting head during his leave of absence.

Before coming to Indiana she taught for five years as a supervisory teacher in the State Normal School at Willimantic, Connecticut. Prior to that time she had taught for seven years in elementary schools in several Massachusetts communities. Her total years in the teaching profession have been thirty-seven and a half.

Miss Murdock received her B.S. degree and M.A. degree from Teachers College, Columbia University. She has also attended Pratt Institute in New York City, Monterey Summer School of Art in Berkshire, Massachusetts and the New York School of Ceramics.

Miss Murdock will reside at 615 Hamilton Street, Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

Blanche Waugaman Jefferson, who has been a teacher in the art department at Indiana State Teachers College for the past six years, retired as of the close of the current semester.

Mrs. Jefferson had previously taught for 20 years in the public schools of Vandergrift as an elementary teacher and art supervisor.

She received her Normal School Diploma from Indiana State Teachers College in 1929, and her B.S. in Education degree from Indiana in 1947. She received her master of arts degree from Columbia University in 1949, and has taken further work toward her Ed.D degree at Columbia University during the summers from 1949 to 1954. She also studied for two summers at the Students Art League in New York City.

Robert Seelhorst has been employed as a supervisor of art in the Keith School, State Teachers College, Indiana, to replace Mrs. Blanche Waugaman Jefferson.

Seelhorst had been supervisor of art at the Titusville and Crafton schools for the past four and a half years. During World War II he was in the United State Army.

He received his B.S. in Education degree at Indiana State Teachers College in 1950 and his M.Ed. degree at Pennsylvania State University. He has taken additional work toward his doctorate at Pennsylvania State University.

Indiana Pioneers in Educational Television

Indiana State Teachers College has become a pioneer in the field of educational television. The college in collaboration with educational television station WQED in Pittsburgh on January 6, 1955, began offering the first college credit course over television to be given in northeastern United States.

This course entitled "Family Dynamics" has been given at 8:00 p.m. each Thursday since January 6 and will continue for fifteen weeks.

Indiana State Teachers College faculty members presented the first five programs of the course in the psychology, sociology, and financial phases of family living.

Indiana faculty members who participated were Dr. S. Trevor Hadley, director of the psycho-education bureau; Dr. Stanley Lore, director of the reading clinic; Mrs. Elsie Rineer, business education faculty member; Dr. Raymond Lee, social studies department; and A. E. Drumheller of the business education department.

Faculty members from Slippery Rock State Teachers College will present the physical and mental health aspects of the course and faculty from California State Teachers College will give practical aspects as related to house planning and repairs.

The Pennsylvania State Department of Public Instruction has approved the granting of one credit for the course as an experimental project in higher education.

Mrs. Margaret Beck of the Indiana State Teachers College English department has been the coordinator for the entire course. A course in television is given by Mrs. Beck at the college and is one of the first of its kind in the country. Students in the course cooperate with WQED in Pittsburgh.

Indiana State Teachers College students have become very much interested in educational television as produced by station WQED in Pittsburgh.

In order to make it possible for students on campus to view WQED programs the college has now installed WQED antennas on the four student-centered TV sets on campus to get good reception from the educational television station.

These television sets are located in the Student Union room in Whitmyre Hall, the women's reception lounge in John Sutton Hall, and the men's recreation lounge in Whitmyre Hall. All three of these television sets were given to the students of the college by the Indiana State Teachers College General Alumni Association.

The college itself has purchased a fourth television which is installed in Room 117 in the new Leonard Hall. This large double room seats about 125 people at one time and is immediately adjoining the complete radio broadcasting booth located in Leonard Hall.

Middle States Evaluation Made

college re-accredited

Nine educators working as a visitation committee for the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary School evaluated Indiana State Teachers College December 1-3, 1954.

The purpose of the evaluation was to determine whether Indiana State Teachers College should be continued as an accredited institution. The result of the evaluation was the continuance of Indiana in the accredited class.

The Middle States Association reinspects accredited colleges about every ten years. The College at Indiana was first accredited in 1942.

Dr. Earl T. Hawkins, president of State Teachers College, Towson, Maryland, served as chairman of the delegation.

The delegation included Dr. Harvey Rice, president of State Teachers College, Buffalo, New York; Dr. Charles McCracken, dean of men, Allegheny College; Dr. Andrew K. Peters, librarian, St. Lawrence University, Canton, New York; Mr. Bernard Siegel, business manager, State Teachers College, Montclair, New Jersey; The Very Reverend Francis L. Meade, president, Niagara University, Niagara, New York.

Dr. Dana P. Vaughan, dean, Cooper Union Art School, New York City; Dr. Kathleen Rhodes, professor of home economics, New Jersey College for Women, New Brunswick, New Jersey; and Dr. Elizabeth Vanderveer, associate professor of business education, State Teachers College, Montclair, New Jersey.

The Association is the chief accrediting organization for all colleges and universities in this area of the United States. Colleges once accredited are visited and re-evaluated once every ten years. Indiana was last approved in 1942; however, due to the Leonard Hall fire, its re-evaluation had been delayed two years.

The Association and also a special committee of three members from the State Council of Education examined Indiana as a prospective graduate school.

The special committee was composed of Dr. Paul Anderson, president, Pennsylvania College for Women, Pittsburgh; Mrs. James Meehan, Brush Valley; and Dr. Carl E. Seifert, deputy superintendent of public instruction, Harrisburg.

Officers of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools are Dr. E. B. Nyquist of the State University of New York and executive assistant, D. F. Taylor Jones.

The College at Indiana has applied for the privilege of giving the master of science in education degree in all of the areas of the college. This application is under the consideration of the State Council of Education. The last word on the subject has been that the State Council will give further consideration to Indiana's application to give the master's degree during March, 1955.

It is understood that the Middle States Association inspection group and the sub-committee of the State Council of Education both reported favorably upon Indiana's facilities and ability to give the master's degree.

Summer Theater Schedules Fourth Season

The fourth season of Summer Theater Guild at the State Teachers College, Indiana, Pennsylvania, will be conducted June 29 to August 6, 1955. As a result of three previous seasons beginning in the summer of 1952, Summer Theater Guild appears to have become an established part of summer life on the Indiana College campus.

Alumni Units and individual members are cordially invited to support this worthy venture into the living theater. Summer Theater Guild managers will be glad to cooperate with Alumni Units arranging for special unit nights during the coming 1955 summer season. Units may care to use these nights as means for making money for their units. The Guild organization will make the best possible terms for such endeavors.

Arrangements for special unit projects in sponsoring nights at the Summer Theater Guild may be made any time beginning now. Arthur F. Nicholson, business and information director for the Summer Theater Guild, will be glad to cooperate with such arrangements until June 1. After that date arrangements may be made with Mrs. Margaret Beck who is going to assist Mr. Nicholson in the management and promotion of Summer Theater Guild this summer.

Summer Theater Guild will operate during the main session of the Indiana State Teachers College summer school and will present a series of entertaining plays four nights each week for six weeks in Fisher Auditorium from June 29 to August 6.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Wednesday through Saturdays as follows: June 29 to July 2, July 6 to July 9, July 13 to July 16, July 20 to July 23, July 27 to July 30, August 3 to August 6.

At the time of this writing the plays to be presented will include Sam and Bella Spewack's "My Three Angels," Ruth and Augustus Goetz's "The Heiress," Norman Krasna's "John Loves Mary," Fay Ganin's "Goodby, My Fancy," and P. G. Wodehouse's "Candlelight."

Others plays being considered are "Time Out For Ginger," "My Sister Eileen," and "Jezebel's Husband." However it is not known whether these last three plays may be secured from the agents. If not, other plays will be secured to make the total of six.

Robert W. Ensley, director of dramatics at the college, will again serve as the drama director for the Guild. Edward Teichert, English teacher at Penn Township High School who has been with the Guild since its founding, will be the technical director. Teichert is a member of the class of 1952. Marlene Poorbaugh Teichert, class of 1953, Marion Bankert Michaels, class of 1953, and Joe Sasway, class of 1955, will be among the acting company.

Robert and Joan Telford of Yale University Drama School will also act with the group and Mr. Telford will probably direct a play. The college is endeavoring to get a guest dramatic director from the University of Pittsburgh or Carnegie Tech to direct two plays. If Edward Langhans of the Yale University Graduate Drama School who is now in England on a Fulbright Scholarship studying at the University of London, returns to this country in time he will also be a member of the Summer Theater Guild group.

Arthur F. Nicholson, class of 1938, will continue to supervise the overall business and promotion angles of the Guild but he will be assisted this summer by Mrs. Margaret Beck of the College English department who will take over the business managership of the Guild while Mr. Nicholson is studying at the New York University Graduate School.

Most of the theater actors and aides for Summer Theater Guild will be interested people from the Indiana area and some college students who are participating in the college dramatic workshop. This drama workshop might be an interesting summer school project for many Alumni now teaching or even some of those who are married and no longer teaching. Students in the workshop may earn from three to nine semester hours credit as a regular part of the summer sessions program and have loads of fun and experience being members of an active theater group.

Production of six major plays in six weeks will necessitate having every available individual in a variety of capacities ranging from assisting with props to acting roles.

Fisher Auditorium at the college will be the scene for Summer Theater Guild productions. The theater portion will be the downstairs area from the balcony break forward to the stage. A partition will be used to give the effect of a smaller theater playhouse.

Alumni and other interested people may obtain a patron's book of six tickets at $10.00 per book. Of this amount $7.00 will be for six admissions to the plays and $3.00 will be a contribution toward underwriting the theater and the placement of the name on the patron's list.

Other books of six tickets are available at $7.00. A special season ticket book at $4.00 is available to college students not enrolled in Indiana State Teachers College summer sessions and to all other students of junior and senior high school and college ages. Individual admission may be procured at the box office for $1.50 each.

Persons hold patron or season tickets may use their six admissions to one each of the six plays or may use all six admissions for one performance allowing them to bring five guests. In brief the admissions in the season ticket books are good for use all at one performance, two performances or any other combination at the convenience of the owner.

In order to survive, this extremely worthwhile project needs all the support Alumni can give it. It is the great advantage of the college to have this Summer Theater Guild program continue.

Phi Alpha's Become Tau Kappa Epsilon

Phi Alpha Zeta, oldest fraternal organization on the Indiana State Teachers College campus, has become Delta Rho Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon.

Tau Kappa Epsilon is a national fraternity having 107 active chapters in the United States. The fraternity is a member of the National Interfraternity Council and ranks tenth in the number of chapters in the nation.

Final installation of Delta Rho Chapter was completed January 30, 1955. Three days of tests, lectures, and ceremonies ended with a banquet at the Indiana Eagles Hall on January 30 with the presentation of the chapter charter.

Installation ceremonies were conducted by James Logan, national president of Tau Kappa Epsilon, and a Kansas City, Missouri, corporation lawyer. M. L. Clovis of Huntington, West Virginia, who was grand chaplain of the fraternity, was the installation officer. Mr. Logan and Mr. Clovis were assisted by Donald Becker of Gettysburg, province pledge trainer, and Robert Ownley of the West Virginia Institute of Technology. The installation team consisted of members of Rho Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon from West Virginia University.

At the installation dinner local guests were Dr. and Mrs. Willis E. Pratt, president of Indiana State Teachers College; Martha C. Faust, dean of women; Dean of men and Mrs. Leroy Schnell, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller, and Dr. Donald Hoffmaster. The fraternity held its installation dance Saturday night, January 29 at the Indiana Country Club.

Of the 107 active chapters of Tau Kappa Epsilon the nearest to Indiana are those chapters at Gettysburg College, Pennsylvania State University, Bucknell University, and West Virginia University.

More than 1,000 men students at Indiana State Teachers College have been members of Phi Alpha Zeta Fraternity since it was organized at Indiana on February 29, 1908. This first organization was a chapter of Delta Phi Sigma Fraternity. It was the first fraternity on the Indiana campus and operated for one year secretly until the attitude of the college administration was deemed favorable.

In 1912 the fraternity became known as Iota Chapter of Phi Alpha Fraternity. On July 10, 1929, this fraternity became the Alpha Chapter of Phi Alpha Zeta. Members of the old Phi Alpha Zeta Fraternity may become members of Tau Kappa Epsilon with the status of alumni members.

Present officers of Delta Rho Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon at Indiana are David Wilkinson, president; David Laird, vice-president; Clifford Cox, secretary; Bruce Williams, treasurer; Rodd Bixler, historian; Richard St.Clair, pledge master; Keith Bloom, chaplain; and Guy Wright, sergeant-at-arms.

In all there are six fraternities and twelve sororities at the Indiana State Teachers College. In addition there are ten honorary fraternities in the various academic and special fields. This progress in fraternal organizations on the Indiana campus has all occurred within the 47 year period.

Leonard Romance Aroused Interest In Readers

comments pro and con

Comments received by the author of the article dealing with the Jane E. Leonard-James Buchanan romance and appearing in the December, 1954, Alumni bulletin have been very interesting. The letters and comments have ranged from highly complimentary to mildly rebuking.

Mary Edna Flegal of R. D. 1, Berwyn, Pennsylvania, writes "I liked your review of Miss Leonard's romance. I can add one more to the myth. There was a little summer house near the steps of north door (I can't remember whether it is still there) and — Buchanan was supposed to have proposed to Aunt Jane in the little house."

A letter from Frederic S. Klein, director of public relations for the James Buchanan Foundation and a member of the history department of Franklin and Marshall College, indicated his interest in the article. Mr. Klein stated that the story was entirely new to him.

He said "I think your article certainly approached the subject in the proper spirit, and indicated a very impartial and objective attitude toward a legend which does not have much to support it, so far as I can see." Mr. Klein also said that he had never heard of the affair, nor could he recall having ever run across any reference to any such relationship. He said "there might be a matter of mistaken identity, as you indicate, but the whole story certainly sounds somewhat imaginative."

Dr. Clara Cockerille suggested that it might have been nicer to have allowed the legendary love affair to remain unwritten about. Dr. Cockerille suggested that the article had the touch of a literary ghoul trying to expose something that wasn't so.

Miss Florence Wallace, who is now a social studies faculty member at the college and who had Miss Leonard as a teacher, said that she had been familiar with the story for many years and she congratulated the author upon his objective historical treatment of the material.

William E. Lafranchi, college librarian, indicated that he felt the article had been very objective and had made use of source material available in the college library. He also indicated that the library would like to have more material on Jane Leonard to keep in the archives.

A great number of other people writing or commenting appeared to agree with the author that Miss Leonard had been one of the most colorful individuals who associated with the college during its 80-year-history.

Facts From The President's Notes

Some of the following facts about the State Teachers College at Indiana were taken by the writer from a talk given by Dr. Willis E. Pratt, president of the college, to the Indiana Chamber of Commerce January 11, 1955.

The facts are reprinted below in hope that Alumni may be interested in them.

- Indiana State Teachers College is a part of the public school system of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. It is organized to provide educated teachers for the schools of the Commonwealth. Last year Indiana produced more teachers with bachelor of science degrees in education than any other Pennsylvania college except Pennsylvania State University.

- The college was founded as a private school in 1875. In 1927 it became a state teachers college. About 6,000 degrees have been conferred by the college since 1927.

- The college is accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. These are the two recognized accrediting associations affecting Indiana.

- Indiana is the tenth largest college in Pennsylvania and one of the largest teachers colleges in the United States.

- The freshman class which entered Indiana in September, 1954, had 550 students. Sixty-five percent of these students had graduated in the upper quarter of their high school graduating class. Approximately eighty percent had been in the upper half of their graduating class.

- Indiana has a faculty of 106 members; one-third of whom have doctors' degrees, one-third of whom have 60 hours or more beyond a bachelor's degree, and one-third of whom have a master's degree or more. Forty-five of these faculty have produced more than 400 publications during their educational careers.

- The college plant consists of about 64 acres of ground located in the center of the Indiana community. There are thirteen major buildings on the central campus that have a replacement value of approximately $8,000,000.

- The college operates on an annual budget of about $1,500,000.

- Enrollment this year is 1625 students. Enrollment for 1955-6 is expected to be 1750 and enrollment by 1960 is expected to be 2500. In order to take care of an enrollment of 2500 students the college will need approximately $3,000,000 worth of buildings and about 100 more staff people including faculty.

- The college has spent $2,500,000 on new buildings and repairs during the past five years.

- Indiana State Teachers College has the only ROTC Corps present on a state teachers college campus in Pennsylvania. This United States Army ROTC Corps has been on the college campus for the past four years.

Male graduates of Indiana who complete the ROTC course get a Second Lieutenant's commission in the United States Army Reserve just the same as graduates from West Point or other specialized military schools. This is accomplished in addition to getting the regular training in teaching fields.

- Many former Indiana students are unaware of the fact that the college now gives a major in guidance as one of the regular curricula of the school.

- In addition to certification in guidance the college also trains public school nurses and dental hygienists giving both groups the academic phases of their training.

- Indiana certifies teachers in art, biology, business, chemistry, dramatics, elementary, English, French, geography, history, home economics, mathematics, music, physics, general science, social studies, Spanish, speech, safety education, and driver education.

- It is hoped that in the near future that the college will be able to give a master of science in education degree in all the major fields of the college.
